What Is Science Olympiad?

Science Olympiad Mission

Science Olympiad is a national non-profit organization dedicated to improving the quality of K-12 science education, increasing male, female and minority interest in science, creating a technologically-literate workforce and providing recognition for outstanding achievement by both students and teachers. These goals are achieved by participating in Science Olympiad tournaments and non-competitive events, incorporating Science Olympiad into classroom curriculum and attending teacher training institutes.

History

Science Olympiad was a created in 1982 by Dr. Gerard Putz (Michigan) and Dr. Jack Cairns (Delaware) to increase interest in science, as an alternative to traditional science fairs and single-discipline tournaments. From humble beginnings, Science Olympiad has grown to include nearly 7,000 schools from across the country and Japan. Science Olympiad is the largest multi-discipline team science competition in the nation.

The Tournament

Teams prepare throughout the school year to compete in Science Olympiad tournaments held on local, state, and national levels. These inter-scholastic competitions consist of a series of approximately 25 events that encourage learning in science, engineering, and technology.

Team Spirit

Science Olympiad events involve teamwork, group planning, and cooperation. The emphasis is on advanced learning in science through active, hands-on, group participation. Through Science Olympiad, students, teachers, coaches, principals, business leaders, and parents bond together as a team working toward a goal.

Science Olympiad provides an alternative to the "isolated scientist" stereotype and reminds students that science can be fun, exciting and challenging all at the same time. In college and beyond, students will find that the team spirit and good sportsmanship they developed during Science Olympiad will be deciding factors in their success.
